

THE SPIRIT OF RAIDERLAND

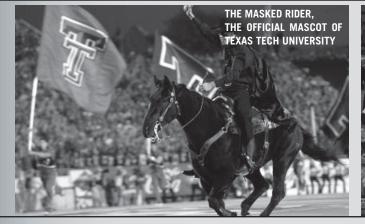

THE "SPIRIT OF RAIDERLAND" COMES IN MANY FORMS.

The 400 member award winning Goin' Band From Raiderland, the Tech Cheerleaders, the Tech Pom Squad, the Saddle Tramps, the High Riders, Raider Red and of course the Masked Rider. All of these groups help make the Texas Tech athletic experience a thrilling one. The true "Spirit of Raiderland" comes only from the hearts of Red Raider fans who bleed Red and Black.

TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY PRIDES ITSELF ON BEING a major comprehensive research university that retains the sense of a smaller liberal arts institution, although enrollment approaches 29,000. Texas Tech students boast of one-on-one interactions with top faculty and an environment that stresses student accomplishment above all else.

Founded in 1923, Texas Tech is located in the South Plains of West Texas. It carries the distinction of being the largest comprehensive higher education institution in the western two-thirds of the state of Texas, and serves a region that is larger than 46 of the nation's 50 states.

Texas Tech is the only campus in the state that is home to a major university, law school and medical school. Students benefit from this by being offered degree programs that combine the assets of these outstanding institutions. Students pursue joint degrees in medicine and business, law and public administration, civil engineering and architecture, and a variety of other programs made possible by the combination of colleges and schools on the campus.

In addition, Texas Tech is a leader in providing students opportunities to participate in undergraduate research. Undergraduate students work side-by-side with renowned faculty researchers and their work is published in major academic journals and presented at conferences around the world.

Undergraduate researchers have explored in vitro fertilization procedures, insecticide toxicity and the role of the brain in the function of the heart. They have also examined voting behaviors, wind engineering, the history of art and topics in literature and the humanities.

Texas Tech receives more money than any other Texas institution for the prestigious Howard Hughes Medical Institute. It also leads the state in the number of Goldwater Scholarships awarded in the last seven years.

The true testament of a university is its graduates. Texas Tech ex-students have been governors of three states, flown space missions, won Olympic Gold Medals, served as ambassadors to foreign countries, acted on Broadway stages, performed in operas, won Pulitzer Prizes, been educators at prestigious universities and even performed heart surgery on prominent late night television hosts. In addition, they head some of the world's largest businesses and some of the country's most successful small firms.

Texas Tech students come from every county in Texas, all 50 states and more than 100 foreign countries. The university offers 150 undergraduate degree programs through eight academic colleges. It also offers more than 100 master's degree programs and more than 50 doctoral programs.

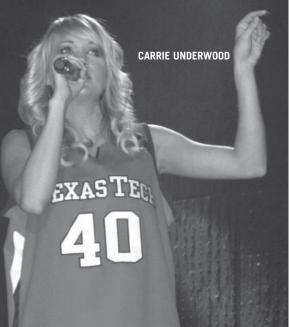

UNITED SPIRIT ARENA I HOME OF LADY RAIDER BASKETBALL

THE UNITED SPIRIT ARENA OPENED IN NOVEMBER OF 1999

and the Lady Raiders played their first game in the new arena on Nov. 20 against LSU in front of a sell-out crowd of 15,050. The arena is home to the Texas Tech women's and men's basketball and volleyball programs and also serves as host to numerous concerts and events each year. The $62 million arena is one of the finest in the nation and has an incredible reputation amongst athletic teams and artists who have visited.

The United Spirit Arena is located on Indiana Avenue and 18th street on the West side of the Texas Tech campus. The arena features complete office suites for both men's and women's basketball and volleyball, as well as a state-of-the-art training room, weight lifting room, practice gym, locker rooms and player lounges for all three sports and also offers every amenity possible for television production.

The building is named for United Supermarkets. The 43-store retail grocery chain headquartered in Lubbock contributed the $10 million lead gift for construction of the arena and was then named UNITED SPIRIT ARENA to help showcase what the arena would mean to not only Texas Tech but to West Texas. Tours of the arena are offered on a daily basis and can be arranged by calling 806-742-7362.

THE UNITED SPIRIT ARENA HAS SERVED AS HOST TO SOME OF THE BIGGEST NAMES IN THE MUSIC BUSINESS SINCE OPENING ITS DOORS IN 1999:

UNLIKE ANY OTHER TRADITION

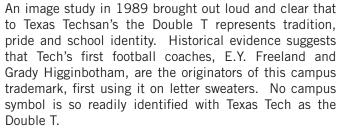

DID YOU KNOW?

Texas Tech was founded in 1923 as Texas Technological College. It became Texas Tech University in 1969 upon approval from the Texas Legislature.

DOUBLE T

GUNS UP

The hand sign of Texas Tech is the "Guns Up," made by extending the index finger outward while extending the thumb upward and tucking in the middle, little and fourth fingers to form a gun. The idea is that Tech fans will shoot down their opponents.

CAROL OF LIGHTS

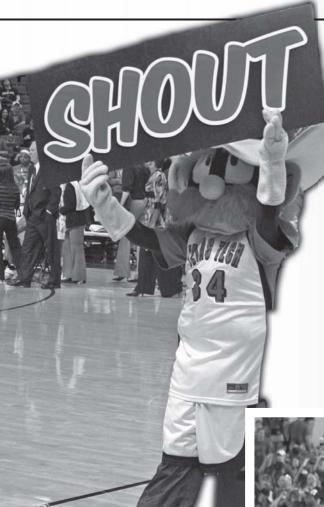

This favorite of Tech's traditions began in 1959 and is celebrated throughout the month of December. All the campus buildings on the Broadway entrance to Memorial Circle, on the Science Quadrangle and Engineering Key, are covered in thousands of red, white and orange Christmas lights. A formal ceremony, torch-lighted parade, trumpeters and seasonal music precede the throwing of the switch that begins the month-long observance of the Carol of Lights. Traditionally, the event is held on the first Friday of December.

BANGIN' BERTHA

Bertha is the bell on a trailer carried to all Tech football and baseball games by the Saddle Tramps. It was donated by the Santa Fe Railroad and is considered a spirit-raiser and tradition at Texas Tech. Bertha was designed in 1959 by Saddle Tramp Joe Winegar.

RED RAIDERS

The name-change from Matadors to Red Raiders came from Lubbock Avalanche-Journal sports writer Collier Parris, reflecting on their red uniforms and a strong season. Covering a football game in 1932, he wrote: "The Red Raiders from Texas Tech, terror of the Southwest this year, swooped into the New Mexico University camp today." The name caught on and by 1936, the Matadors had faded into history, replaced by the Red Raiders.

RAIDER RED

Prior to the 1971 season, the Southwest Conference passed a rule that prevented members of the conference from taking live animals to non-home games unless the host team had no objections. So Jim Gaspard, a member of Saddle Tramps, created Raider Red from a drawing by Lubbock cartoonist Dirk West as an alternative to the Masked Rider when the horse couldn't travel with the football team.

MASKED RIDER

One of the most recognizable mascots in the nation is the Masked Rider. Early Tech students started the tradition on Sept. 26, 1936. Called Ghost Riders because no one knew their identity, the rider wearing a scarlet satin cape and mounted on a palomino stallion, would appear mysteriously during home football games, circle the field at breakneck speed, and disappear for the remainder of the game.

SADDLE TRAMPS

Formed by Tech student Arch Lamb in 1936, this all-male booster organization supports men's athletics at Texas Tech. The Midnight Raiders "paint the campus red" with crepe paper before big home games. Tramps ring Bangin' Bertha, a large bell donated by the Santa Fe Railroad, participate in parades and other campus events, including the Carol of Lights, and right the Victory Bells after men's athletic teams win.

WILL ROGERS & SOAPSUDS

Will Rogers, a humorist in the 1920s and 30s, and his horse, Soapsuds, title "Riding Into the donated $200 for the Tech band to play at the Sunset." Executed by Electra Waggoner Biggs, football game against TCU on Oct. 20, 1926. He who was only 18-years-old at the time, the statue wanted people in Fort Worth to hear a "real band." is one of four like it in the United States. The During this trip, Rogers was encouraged by his statue was physically erected on what was known longtime friend Amon G. Carter to put up $1,500 as Soapsuds Pavilion east of Memorial Circle and to buy the and new uniforms. Carter matched offset 23 degrees north from west in order to face the contribution. In 1948, the Amon G. Carter the rear of the horse toward Texas A&M, a favorite Foundation presented to Tech a statue of Rogers Tech rival.

FIGHT! RAIDERS FIGHT!

TEXAS TECH FIGHT SONG

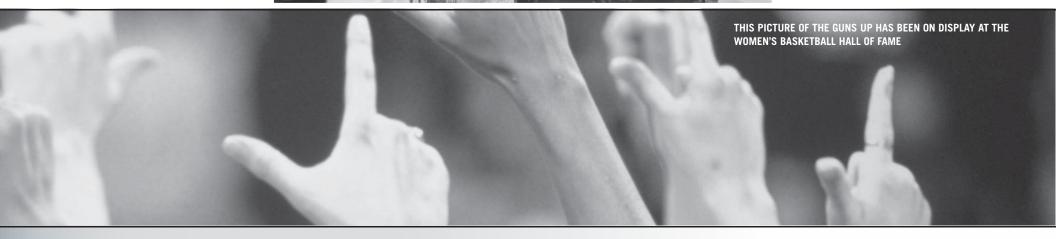

Fight Raiders Fight! Fight Raiders Fight! Fight for the school we love so dearly. You'll hit'em high, you'll hit'em low. You'll push the ball across that goal. Tech, Fight, Fight! We'll praise your name. Boost you to fame. Fight for the Scarlet and the Black! You will hit'em, you will wreck'em, Hit'em, Wreck'em Texas Tech! And the victory bells will ring out.

THE MATADOR SONG TEXAS TECH ALMA MATER

Fight Matadors for Tech! Songs of love we'll sing to thee. Bear our banners far and wide, Ever to be our pride.

Fearless Champions ever be, Stand on heights of victory. Strive for honor evermore. Long live the Matadors!

THE MASKED RIDER TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY

ON JAN. 1, 1954, TEXAS TECH FANS ATTENDING THE GATOR Bowl in Tampa, Florida, witnessed the evolution of a beloved tradition that Red Raider fans would embrace for decades to come. Dressed in black clothing with a long flowing cape and mounted on a solid black gelding horse, Joe Kirk Fulton caught the eyes of the nation when he stormed out onto the playing field to lead the Red Raider football team. Ed Danforth of the Atlanta Constitution wrote: "No team in any bowl game ever made a more sensational entrance." The dramatic entry by the horse and rider electrified the crowd as well as the team, which beat Auburn 35-13.

Fifty-four years later, the Texas Tech Masked Rider is perhaps the most recognizable collegiate mascot in the country. The Masked Rider is a colorful symbol of school spirit and pride that carries a certain mystique. Wearing black riding clothes, mask, bolero hat, and scarlet cape, and perched atop Midnight Matador: a jet black quarter horse, the Masked Rider is one of college football's most unique mascots. Leading the team out onto the field before each home game, the Masked Rider can additionally be seen at other Red Raider sporting events. The rider and horse also represent Texas Tech at rodeos, parades, civic events and school activities around the state.

Serving the Masked Rider position for 2007-2008 academic school year is Kevin Burns, from Clovis, N.M. Burns is a junior Animal and Food Science major.

The Masked Rider is selected through a process involving a horsemanship trial scored by independent professional judges and interviews with the university's Masked Rider Committee. Wells Fargo Bank established the Wells Fargo Masked Rider Endowment at Texas Tech University in 1995 to fund operations of the Masked Rider program and provide the $2,500 Masked Rider Scholarship. Wells Fargo has pledged a total of $250,000 to complete the endowment and guarantee the future of the Masked Rider tradition. In addition, Wells Fargo provided funding to obtain the current mascot, the Masked Rider pickup and a new horse trailer.

There is no charge for Masked Rider appearances, but the Masked Rider program does encourage donations to the Masked Rider endowment fund.

Donations may be made to the "Masked Rider Endowment Fund," TTU Box 45014, Lubbock, TX 79409. Call the Center for Campus Life at (806) 742-5433 or email Stephanie.rhode@ttu.edu for more information.

THE GOIN' BAND FROM RAIDERLAND

THE GOIN' BAND FROM RAIDERLAND IS THE 440 MEMBER MARCHING BAND

at Texas Tech University. Giving its first performance when Texas Tech played its first football game in 1925, the Goin' Band has grown into one of the largest student and spirit organizations on campus. For its "sustained excellence and contributions to the American way of life" the Goin' Band has been honored by the John Philip Sousa Foundation with the SUDLER TROPHY – the nation's highest honor for collegiate marching bands!

Bands at Texas Tech are open to all students regardless of major. In fact, 75 percent of the Goin' Band members are majoring in something other than music. All members earn full academic credit for their participation in the band with approximately five and a half hours of rehearsal per week during the fall. Both music and drill are learned during that time.

THE OFFICE OF ATHLETIC ACADEMIC SERVICES IS COMMITTED to providing a comprehensive program that emphasizes the overall development of student-athletes through the development of academic, personal and professional excellence. Texas Tech Athletics was the recipient of the 2005-2006 Division IA Champs Program of Excellence Award, which is a lifetime award designed to recognize Division IA athletics programs that have established student-athlete welfare as the cornerstone of their operating principles. Since its inception in 1997, Texas Tech is 1 of 39 institutions to be the recipient of this prestigious honor. Texas Tech Athletics was also one of four institutions awarded with the 2005-2006 National Basketball Association Player Development Service Award which was based on our intensive academic support program. Texas Tech Athletic Academic Services will continue to foster an environment of excellence and provide student-athletes with the necessary tools and resources to achieve their maximum academic potential.

The Athletic Academic Services staff is comprised of professionals who have extensive backgrounds, experience, and expertise within student services and athletics. Their commitment goes well beyond just helping student-athletes understand the academic requirements of Texas Tech University, the Big 12 Conference, and the NCAA. Rather, it's a commitment to help the student-athlete's total development. Accordingly, the office of Athletic Academic Services provides an environment, which promotes academic, career, and personal success of all Texas Tech student-athletes.

The program is integrated with the university's total commitment to student success. Athletic Academic Services offers and continues to move forward in implementing components that provide continuous support for student-athletes in each phase of their academic, personal, and professional development. The final goal is graduation and preparation for life after athletics.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Athletic Academic Services provides professional tutoring to all student-athletes for their academic development. The tutor program has been certified and meets the strict standards of the College Reading and Learning Association (CRLA). Tutors are available for most courses offered at Texas Tech and are arranged through the Athletic Academic Services office.

To help ease the transition into Texas Tech, freshmen and transfer student-athletes are placed into the mentoring program during their first semester. This program has also been certified by CRLA and matches new student-athletes with an upperclassman or graduate student to help them with academic life at Texas Tech. Topics include time management, study skills, and major and career exploration – in addition to traditional adjustment issues.

The A+ Raider Program, which is administered by the Athletics' Department full time Learning Specialist, is also available to student-athletes with special needs. This program provides intensive academic support to assist student-athletes with their academic progress.

All student-athletes may utilize the Verizon Technology Center featuring Dell technology and computers. Student-athletes can compose papers, check and write e-mail or research topics via the internet from the center. More and more professors are placing class notes on-line and requiring students to submit papers via the web and participate in online discussions. Computer support personnel are available to assist student-athletes whenever help is needed. Graduating student-athletes may also take advantage of the GRE, GMAT, and LSAT interactive test prep software. Athletic Academic Services also provides laptop computers for team use whenever traveling to away games and events.

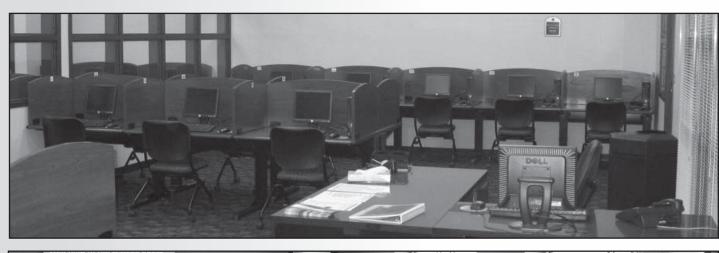

ACADEMIC ADVISING & COUNSELING

Athletic Academic Services has counselors assigned to work with student-athletes on a sport-by-sport basis. The optimum student-athlete to athletic academic advisor ratio set forth by the National Association of Academic Advisors for Athletics (N4A) is 100-1. Texas Tech Athletic Academic Services has a student-athlete to counselor ratio of approximately 64-1.

Academic counselors go through extensive training and work with their student-athletes in a reverse pyramid fashion – initially with first semester general education and exploratory courses. This expands into major exploration, responsibilities of the student-athlete, and understanding Texas Tech, Big 12 Conference, and NCAA rules and eligibility requirements. The counselors continue to expand the pyramid with career exploration and personal development issues until the student-athlete graduates.

RED RAIDER LIFE SKILLS

The University is committed to the complete development of the young men and women who wear Texas Tech Red and Black. With a full time Coordinator devoted to Life Skills and as a member of the NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills program, Red Raider Life Skills offers components that address academic, athletic, social, personal, and career development. The program also facilitates service leadership through various community service projects via the Red Raider Speaker's Bureau, which features student-athlete appearances to elementary and junior high schools, as well as other organizations.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

OTHER COMMUNITY OUTREACH ACTIVITIES INCLUDE

Read with the Red Raiders, Communities in Schools, Habitat for Humanity, and supporting the Special Olympians. Texas Tech student-athletes spent over 1600 hours in the community last year.

Interdisciplinary Studies 1200, 'Life Skills for Student Athletes,' is offered to freshmen scholarship student-athletes. This 2-credit hour course helps student-athletes make a successful transition to college and prepares them for various demands and issues they will face as Division I student athletes. The course covers a variety of topics including time management, major and career exploration, self-responsibility issues, and sports-related health education.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

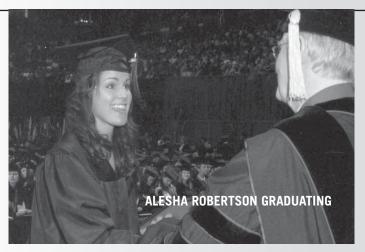

The Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) is an active committee that consists of representatives from each of Texas Tech's intercollegiate sports teams.

SAAC works hand-in-hand with the athletic department to enhance the quality of student-athlete life - not just at Tech, but in the Big 12 Conference and at the national level by representation at the NCAA Leadership Conference. Athletic department personnel meet regularly with SAAC to discuss issues, problems, and interests facing today's student-athletes. SAAC also coordinates a charity fundraiser and community service events each year and takes part in the administration of the annual Student-Athlete Academic Awards Reception.

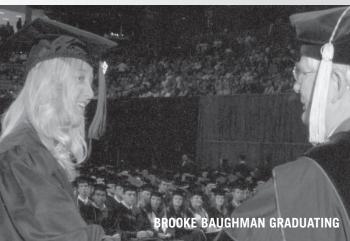

ACADEMIC AWARDS

Texas Tech consistently has many student-athletes selected to the Academic All-Big 12 Teams for each sport and is well represented on the Big 12 Conference Commissioner's Honor Roll. In past years, Texas Tech student-athletes have been recognized with NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarships, Verizon Academic All-American of the Year, National Football Foundation and College Football Hall of Fame Post Graduate Scholarship, and national recognition by the American Football Coaches Association.

This past year Texas Tech Athletics had more student-athletes on the Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll (3.0 GPA), more student-athletes on the Dean's List (3.5 GPA) and more student-athletes on the President's List (4.0 GPA) than ever before since keeping records. Sixty student-athletes were also selected for their respective Academic All Big 12 Teams.

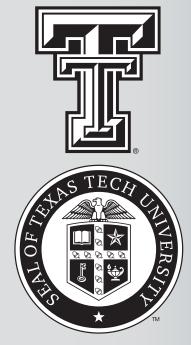

FACILITY

In January of 2004 Athletic Academic Services moved into the new Marsha Sharp Center for Student-Athletes. This facility has proved to be one of the best facilities in the country. This state of the art building is showcased by the Wick and Janna Alexander Academic Hall of Honor and the Verizon Technology Center. The facility also provides office space for the Academic Services staff, tutor and classroom space, as well meeting room space used by the Athletics Department.

ACADEMIC AWARDS BANQUET

Each spring Academic Services hosts an academic awards banquet, recognizing student-athletes academic achievements and community service efforts. Student-athletes are recognized who achieve a 3.0 cumulative GPA or above. The top graduating seniors from each sport are also recognized with special awards. This past year Dell Laptop computers were awarded to these special studentathletes in recognition of their efforts. Team awards for academic excellence and community service awards are also presented. The evening is highlighted with the Male and Female Student-Athlete of the Year awards which is the highest honor Texas Tech can bestow upon a student-athlete. For the 2006-2007 year, Ana Morton from the soccer team was the Female Student-Athlete of the Year and Dimitrio Martinez from the men's tennis team was the Male Student-Athlete of the Year. Both clearly demonstrated excellence in the classroom, as well as leadership within their respective sports and both were very active in the Texas Tech and Lubbock communities.

ATHLETIC TRAINING

IMELDA GARCIA WOMEN'S BASKETBALL ATHLETIC TRAINER

OUTSTANDING TRAINERS AND DOCTORS, STATE-OF-THE-ART FACILITIES,

and innovative training equipment combine to give Texas Tech one of the nation's premier athletic health care operations. Texas Tech athletes are cared for in the ultimate manner through prevention, precaution, treatment and rehabilitation.

The facilities at Tech are some of the best in the Big 12 Conference. The main training room is located in the Football Training Facility. The United Spirit Arena training room and facilities adjacent to Tech's baseball field and track and field complex combine with the above to allow the training staff to provide each student-athlete with the most comprehensive care possible for the prevention and rehabilitation of injuries.

The staff at Texas Tech includes seven certified and licensed athletic trainers. In addition, the graduate assistant program allows students to facilitate actual hands-on experience with work in a classroom environment. The health care team also oversees a core of nearly 20 student athletic trainers. Texas Tech offers an internship program in athletic training in which students have the opportunity to record hours under the supervision of the licensed training staff. These hours are complemented by a specially designed curriculum to prepare graduates for the Texas Department of Health Athletic Training Licensing exam.

Ken Murray oversees Texas Tech Sports Medicine serving as Senior Associate Athletics Director for Sports Medicine. Along with Murray, Texas Tech athletes continue to be treated with the finest in health care with a full-time athletic trainer: Mark Chisum (football), Todd Faison (track), Imelda Garcia (women's basketball), Shawn Lindsey (baseball), Steve Pincock (football), Larry Munger (softball/tennis), Jon Murray (men's basketball), and Laura Schnettogoecke (soccer); along with graduate assistant trainers: Mike Black (football/golf), Adela Escobedo (volleyball) and Nick Potter (football/golf).

TORY STEPHENS WOMEN'S BASKETBALL COACH

One of the most important elements of any successful team is the physical preparation of its student-athletes. Texas Tech's strength and conditioning program, which operates out of three weight rooms in the United Spirit Arena, the Football Training Facility and the Athletic Training Center, accommodates all 17 intercollegiate programs. Tech's strength and conditioning staff has implemented a varied and highly functional program to meet each student athlete's specific needs.

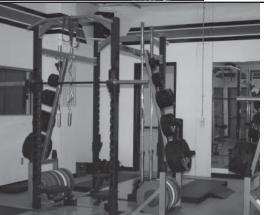

The Texas Tech strength and conditioning staff oversees the STRENGTH AND CONDITIONING operation that focuses on the student-athletes' sport specific training goals. The staff monitors daily workouts with individualized attention and makes necessary adjustments in training and techniques.

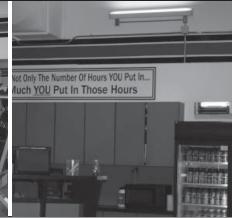

> The strength and conditioning coaching staff monitors each student-athlete's individual progress through one-on-one supervision and computer technology. They design in-season and off-season development programs, focusing on the transition period. Strength, speed training, power and agility, and stretching are emphasized, as the staff pinpoints each athlete's needs, depending on the sport. The strength and conditioning staff consists of associate head strength coach Tory Stephens, who is in his 11th season as the head women's basketball strength and conditioning coach, along with head football strength coach Bennie Wylie and head men's basketball strength coach Chris Braeden and assistant strength coaches Katie Munger, Joszef Szendrei, Aaron Uzzell and Jason Young. The Lady Raiders and Red Raiders are led through year-round conditioning programs by these strength coaches.

The staff strives to create a fun competitive atmosphere where student-athletes enjoy coming to train everyday. The experiences in the weight room not only help prepare the Raiders for competition, but also create a greater sense of unity among each team.

With multiple state-of-the-art training facilities and a top notch staff, the strength and conditioning program gives Texas Tech student-athletes the edge they need to reach their team and individual goals.

THE TEXAS TECH ATHLETIC HALL OF HONOR WAS ESTABLISHED IN 1961 to recognize a select group of people who have had a special impact on Texas Tech athletics. Induction into the Hall is not limited to past athletes or administrators, although many Red Raider stars are among the members. To be eligible for consideration, the candidate should not have brought distinction to the Texas Tech athletic program, but also have displayed qualifications such as sportsmanship, character, and integrity. A former athlete is not eligible until 10 years after his/her class has graduated. Full-time Texas Tech athletic employees are not eligible. Since the Hall of Honor's initial ceremony, 150 people have been inducted, including six former Lady Raiders. More detailed information can be found at www.TexasTech.com and click on Hall of Honor.

LUBBOCK, TEXAS IS HOME TO MANY THINGS - TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY, the world's largest cotton region multi-million dollar industry just to name a few. But, what you may not know may surprise you.

Lubbock has a population of 210,000 people which makes the city the second largest in the Big 12 Conference. Lubbock is easily accessible by either the highway or by air as four major airlines offer daily jet service to Lubbock International Airport. Unlike many other cities in Texas, Lubbock has four true seasons so don't be surprised to be able to build snowmen in the winter, need a fan in the summer, wear a light jacket in the fall and plant your favorite flowers in the warm spring weather. Lubbock at night has been referred to as nothing but pure heaven as temperatures drop into the 70's at night in the summer time giving residents a break from the summer heat.

Lubbock has long been a place for music as some of the most famous names in the music industry have their roots in and around the city. The city is known all across the globe as being the home of Buddy Holly, one of the most successful rock and roll artists of our time.

There is plenty to keep you busy in Lubbock as the city boasts the largest single story mall in Texas (South Plains Mall), literally hundreds of the most popular restaurants, two 16-plus screen movie theaters, bowling alleys, an omni-max theater, museums, lakes, parks and many other activities.

DID YOU KNOW?????

THE LUBBOCK AREA IS HOME TO SOME OF THE MOST FAMOUS NAMES IN THE MUSIC BUSINESS.

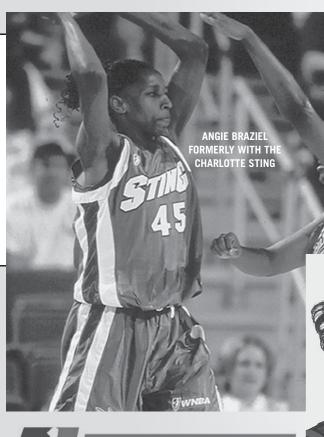

NATALIE MAINES, lead singer for the Dixie Chicks RICHIE MCDONALD, lead singer for LoneStar BUDDY HOLLY, legendary rock and roll artist TANYA TUCKER, country music singer WAYLON JENNINGS, country music singer and the narrator from the Dukes of Hazzard MAC DAVIS, country music singer JOE ELY, rock and roll artist

THE RED RAIDER CLUB IS THE PRINCIPAL FUNDRAISING ARM OF TEXAS TECH ATHLETICS.

Annual contributions to the Red Raider Club Scholarship Fund directly support more than 250 scholarship student-athletes. These gifts also allow Texas Tech University to build and maintain a first-class athletic program that can compete at the highest levels within the Big 12 Conference and the NCAA.

The Red Raider Club was founded in 1926 as the Matador Club. Its charge was "to support college athletics and to develop close contact between the people of the plains ... college students and faculty members in order that all athletic programs may be given the whole-hearted support of everyone." More than 75 years later, with Red Raider Club members stretching across the U.S., that basic mission still applies.

The Red Raider Club is housed within the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. Steve Uryasz, Senior Associate Athletics Director for Development, has served as Executive Director of the Red Raider Club since May 2000.

Below is a listing of gifts and endowments to Texas Tech Athletics.

The mission of Athletic Compliance at Texas Tech University is to provide a comprehensive compliance and monitoring program that promotes knowledge of and adherence to NCAA, Big 12 Conference and institutional rules and regulations among members of the athletics department, Texas Tech personnel and members of the athletics community, thereby reducing infractions.

THE NCAA RULES AND YOU

Compliance with NCAA rules is of the highest priority for our athletics program and institution. As a member of the NCAA, Texas Tech University is responsible for the actions of its boosters and fans. Even the best-intentioned action on your part may be a violation of NCAA rules. Please contact the Texas Tech Compliance Office if you have any questions regarding what is permissible. We encourage our boosters and fans to help us "Protect Our House".

Representatives of Athletic Interests (Boosters)

YOU ARE A BOOSTER IF YOU:

- Are an alum, fan, or friend of Texas Tech University;
- Have ever made contributions to the Texas Tech Athletics Department; or
- Have ever been involved in promoting the Texas Tech University athletics programs in any way.

ONCE A BOOSTER...ALWAYS A BOOSTER

RECRUITING

Only coaches and athletic department staff members can be involved in the recruiting process.

BOOSTERS ARE PROHIBITED FROM:

- Contacting a prospect in person on or off our campus.
- Writing or telephoning a prospect or a member of the prospect's family.
- Making arrangements for a prospect or the prospect's relatives or friends, to receive money, gifts, services, or financial aid of any kind.
- Providing transportation for a prospect or the prospect's relatives or friends to visit our campus.

BOOSTERS ARE PERMITTED TO:

- Notify our coaches about prospects in your area that may be strong additions to our teams.
- Attend high school or two-year college athletic contests or other events where prospects may compete. However, you may not contact the prospect or the prospect's relatives.
- Continue existing friendships with families of prospects, but you may not attempt to recruit the prospect.

PROSPECTIVE STUDENT-ATHLETE (PROSPECT)

A prospect is any student who has started classes for the ninth grade in a high school or prep school, or who attends a junior college. In addition, an individual who has officially withdrawn from a four-year college or university is considered a prospect.

An individual remains a prospect until they enroll at Texas Tech University full-time during the regular academic year (i.e., fall or spring). Otherwise, the individual remains a prospect, even if they signed a National Letter of Intent.

STUDENT-ATHLETES

A student-athlete is any student who is enrolled at Texas Tech University and is a current or former member of a varsity athletics team.

EXTRA BENEFITS

AN EXTRA BENEFIT IS:

Any special arrangement by a Texas Tech University employee or a booster to provide a prospect or a student-athlete (or their relatives or friends) a benefit that is not generally available to the public or other Texas Tech students or is not expressly authorized by NCAA legislation.

EXAMPLES OF EXTRA BENEFITS:

- Anything from an employee of Texas Tech or a Texas Tech athletics booster (e.g., use of a car, clothing, gifts, money, tickets for any kind of entertainment, payment of long distance telephone calls).
- Free or reduced cost on:
- Room and/or board
- Merchandise or services from any merchant

Acceptance of an extra benefit by student-athletes (or their relatives or friends) is a violation of NCAA regulations. Any inappropriate, even inadvertent activity on the part of the student-athlete (or his or her family) could result in:

- Declaring a currently enrolled student-athlete ineligible to participate for Texas Tech;
- Jeopardizing the eligibility of a prospect;
- Sanctions placed on the University and its athletics programs; and/or
- Restrictions placed upon your involvement with Texas Tech's athletics program.

BENEFITS RESULTING FROM AN ESTABLISHED RELATIONSHIP

If any of the following statements are true, then providing benefits to prospects or student-athletes, their relatives or friends can result in the student-athlete being rendered ineligible and cause the individual providing the benefit to be classified as a booster from that point forward:

- 1. The relationship between the athlete or their parents and the individual providing the benefit developed as a result of the athlete's participation in athletics or their reputation as an athlete;
- 2. The relationship began only after the athlete became a prospect;
- 3. The relationship began only after the athlete had achieved notoriety due to his or her athletic ability or reputation: or
- The pattern of giving increased after the athlete attained notoriety as a skilled athlete.
